
Film festival celebrates environment

Mission Beach Business and Tourism will be staging the Mission Beach Film Festival on November 6, 7 and 8.

The festival steering committee of Mission Beach residents, Sue Clothier, Melissa Thurgood and Sarah Mort agree the use of film will excite and educate the wider community to generate support for the environment.

Sarah Mort said the festival will be a celebration of creative storytelling from Australia and around the world with "sustainability" as the theme.

"Mission Beach is located within two World Heritage areas, so it is the perfect location to establish such an event," she said.

"We hope the film festival will become an annual cultural and environmentally themed event.

"We hope the community will back this exciting new initiative which will promote the villages of Mission Beach and surrounding areas.

"The steering committee wants to hear from any community members or organisations that are willing to provide time and resources to assist in the production of the festival.
